PRICES EVER INVENTED

A host on WhatsApp who never sleeps, never guesses, and never leaves a guest waiting.

- One WhatsApp number. It answers the way our front desk answers — in Nistula's voice, at any hour.
- Every price comes live from our own website. It cannot invent a number.
- Service requests become jobs on the right staff phone — and they are chased until someone closes them.
- A human can step in at any moment. The assistant goes quiet on that chat.
- It remembers every guest, so a returning guest is met by someone who already knows them.
- The rule underneath everything: never guess, never go silent.

The price you see is the final price.

NISTULA.LIFE · THE PROMISE THE ASSISTANT IS BUILT AROUND

WHO IT IS FOR

The guest enquiring at midnight. The guest standing in an apartment who needs towels. The guest who stayed in March and is thinking about October. All three, on the same number, without anyone having to be awake.

WHAT CHANGES FOR THE TEAM

Less typing, not less control. The enquiries that arrive at odd hours are answered; the requests that arrive mid-shift turn up as a card with the house already on it. Anyone can take a chat back simply by replying in it — no button, no handover, just type.

Eight parts, each with one job. Together they are the host.

01

The front door

Receives and sends the WhatsApp messages. Never loses one, and never sends the same one twice.

02

The brain

Reads the chat and decides: answer it, fetch a price, raise a job, or bring a human in.

03

The price truth

Quotes only what nistula.life quotes, to the rupee. A figure it cannot trace is one it will not send.

04

The memory

The thread of this chat, plus lasting facts about each guest — loves early check-in, celebrated an anniversary.

05

The mirror

Checks eZee every minute, so a booking from any channel is known to us within sixty seconds.

06

The hands

Turns "can we get towels?" into a card on the right phone. DONE closes it, and slow jobs get chased.

07

The clock

Five messages that send themselves: confirmation, pre-arrival, welcome, thank-you, welcome-back.

08

The nerves

Watches itself — a daily summary, an alarm if it falls silent, and a spending cap that stops it.

A guest asks at 23:42. Nobody is awake. The answer is still right, and the rupees are real.

The guest's phone

RAHUL · 23:42

GUEST · 23:42

Hi, is a 3bhk villa available 20-22 dec? what will be the rate

NISTULA ASSISTANCE · 23:42

We no longer let the three-bedroom houses in Assagao. What we do have is our Assagao apartments, and the four-bedroom villa in Siolim. Shall I check either for those dates?

GUEST · 23:43

the apartments then — same dates

NISTULA ASSISTANCE · 23:43

Good evening. The apartments in Assagao are free for 20–22 Dec — ₹34,000 all-inclusive for both nights. Would you like photographs, or the booking link?

GUEST · 23:44

any discount for direct booking?

NISTULA ASSISTANCE · 23:44

Our website rate is the final rate for everyone — full transparency, always. What you see is genuinely all-inclusive: taxes, housekeeping, the lot. Here's the link whenever you're ready.

The staff phone

FRONT DESK

Nothing. No card, no alert, nobody woken.
The whole exchange was handled without the team.

Never blames the dates. The three-bedroom houses were retired, not booked. Saying "those dates are taken" would be a false statement about a real house, so the assistant says plainly what is true.

Price fetched live from the website. The ₹34,000 was not remembered, estimated or rounded — it came back from nistula.life in that turn, and the safety checks refuse to send a figure that did not.

The discount line is fixed wording. It is not the assistant's own phrasing and cannot drift. Every guest who asks gets the same sentence, word for word.

A request in the chat becomes a job on a phone. Both ends close in the same loop.

The guest's phone

RAHUL · IN-HOUSE

GUEST · 15:20

hi, can we get 2 extra towels

NISTULA ASSISTANCE · 15:20

Of course — two fresh towels are on their way up. Anything else you need this afternoon?

The promise came after the job, not before. The card below had already reached a phone. If it had failed, the assistant would have said so and brought the team in instead.

NISTULA ASSISTANCE · 15:59

Housekeeping have taken care of that for you.

Only a real DONE closes a guest's loop. Nothing tells the guest it is finished until a person says it is.

The staff phone

HOUSEKEEPING · ASSAGAO

TASK CARD · 15:20

NISTULA TASK #K7Q2FX

Apartment 09 · Rahul · 2 extra towels

Reply DONE K7Q2FX when finished.

This card appeared on the staff phone. The house on it was looked up fresh from eZee at that moment — never a guess, and never repeated back to the guest.

CHASED · 15:52 · COPIED TO THE FRONT-DESK LEAD

NISTULA TASK #K7Q2FX

Apartment 09 · overdue · STILL OPEN after 30 min — 2 extra towels

Reply DONE K7Q2FX when finished.

HOUSEKEEPING · 15:58

DONE K7Q2FX

Slow jobs chase themselves. Half an hour is the agreed time for towels. Past it the same card comes back marked overdue, and the front-desk lead gets a copy — nobody has to remember to follow up.

When a person is needed, a person arrives — and the assistant steps back without being told.

A human steps in

GUEST'S PHONE · 12:15

GUEST · 12:15

we are planning a proposal at the villa, can you decorate the pool area? budget not an issue

NISTULA ASSISTANCE · 12:15

Congratulations — what a lovely thing to plan. Our villa team will design this personally; someone will message you right here very shortly.

MEERA · FRONT DESK · 12:19

Hello, this is Meera from Nistula. I look after arrangements like this myself — tell me the evening you have in mind and I will put something together.

The assistant goes quiet on this chat for 2 hours

No reply invented — a person was brought in. The assistant promised nothing it could not deliver, and the moment Meera typed, it stopped. It also cancelled its own reminder chasing the front desk, because the front desk had arrived.

The night

GUEST'S PHONE · 23:30

GUEST · 23:30

could you arrange a private chef for tomorrow evening?

NISTULA ASSISTANCE · 23:30

That's one for the villa team — let me bring them in. Someone will reply first thing after 10, when the team is in.

Honest about the hour. By day this same line ends "shortly". At night it cannot, because nobody is coming until ten — and a promise the team cannot keep is worse than the wait.

WHAT THE TEAM SEES AT 10:00

Anything raised overnight is waiting in the morning summary, with the guest's own words and the hour it came in. Nothing is lost between midnight and the first cup of coffee.

The same path, every message, whatever the assistant happens to think.

The point of the diagram: the first box and the last two are ordinary, predictable machinery — not judgement. The assistant is wrapped in rules it cannot argue with, so a bad day for the assistant is still a safe day for the guest.

Eight things it is not allowed to do — enforced, not merely requested.

- ✓ It cannot invent a price. Only the website's number reaches a guest.
- ✓ It cannot claim work was done unless the job genuinely reached a phone.
- ✓ It never negotiates. One rate, for everyone, always.
- ✓ It is honest about hours. It never promises help that is not coming.
- ✓ It says it is Nistula Assistance when asked. It never pretends to be a person.
- ✓ It protects guest privacy. One guest can never see another's details.
- ✓ It watches its own spending and stops itself at a set limit.
- ✓ It brings a person in whenever it is unsure. Deferring is always allowed; guessing never is.

DAY ONE — THE TEAM IS THE TEACHER

Every message the assistant writes starts as a draft. Nothing reaches a guest until the front desk approves it.

Three replies run the whole thing: OK to send, EDIT to send your words instead, NO to bin it. The corrections are how the assistant learns our house style — and the drafts stay on until the team is comfortable turning them off, one kind of conversation at a time.

THE ONE IT ALWAYS ANSWERS HONESTLY

"You're chatting with Nistula Assistance — our own AI host, built end to end by Nistula to look after your stay from the first hello to welcome back. The front-desk team reads along and can step in anytime — just say the word."

Five things that are simply out of reach.

- ✗ No discounts, ever. Not on request, not on repeat asking, not for anyone.
- ✗ It never names a specific house to a guest until the team says it may.
- ✗ It never messages guests we are not permitted to message.
- ✗ It never keeps what a guest asks us to forget.
- ✗ It never keeps talking once a human has taken over.

Nothing showy. Everything considered.

NISTULA.LIFE

WHY TWO OF THESE ARE STRICTER THAN THEY LOOK

The house. A guest books an apartment, not a door number, and eZee chooses the door — sometimes late. So the assistant speaks of the apartment in Assagao, never of Apartment 09, until the team decides otherwise. The staff card is the opposite case: it must name the door, because someone has to walk to it.

Permission to write first. Guests who booked through Airbnb or Booking.com never gave us their number for WhatsApp. Until the team says we may write to them, the assistant does not — even though it holds the numbers.

Built and proven. Waiting on two keys that are not ours to cut.

PROVEN TODAY, ON THE TEST NUMBER

- ✓ Everything on the conversation pages ran for real — the midnight quote, the towels, the handover, the night.
- ✓ 1,813 automated checks pass before any change is allowed in.
- ✓ Live since July, answering on the test line in Nistula's voice.

WAITS FOR THE REAL NUMBER — WHATSAPP'S RULES, NOT OURS

- The assistant and the team sharing one real number — the team on WhatsApp Web as always, the assistant alongside, quiet the moment a person types.
- Bringing past chat history across, so nobody starts from a blank thread.
- Officially approved message templates, which WhatsApp requires before we write first.
- Real guest volume — the test line is capped at five phones.

Two keys open the final door: Meta business verification, and the agreement with an authorised WhatsApp provider.

And the two question documents with the villa team are the fuel — every answer switches on another feature.
